Criteria to be used to evaluate applications for the Hollander Capstone Research Award

Applicants for this award must be working on a psychologically-relevant, data-based Capstone project within the Department of Psychological Sciences (Psychology and Communications Sciences Programs). Completed or nearly-completed projects are acceptable. For consideration, applicants should submit the following materials:

1. A 1- to 2-page (single-spaced) description of the Capstone project, including descriptions of:
    a. the background/importance of the project;
    b. a priori hypotheses;
    c. methods;
    d. results;
    e. and conclusions, highlighting what was learned from the project and how this information addresses an important scientific question
2. A copy of the applicant's undergraduate transcript
3. A brief description of the applicant's plans following graduation
4. A brief description of the applicant's other academic accomplishments (e.g., conference presentations, publications, organizational memberships, leadership and service experiences; items 3 & 4 should not comprise more than 1 page of text, combined)

Applications should be submitted electronically to kpr4@case.edu and put "Hollander Applicant" as the subject heading of the email.

Submission Deadline: 5:00 p.m. Friday, March 24, 2023