Course Description

This course of study is an examination of decision-making and governance in the American urban context. Local governments operate in ways that are distinctive from federal and state government. Not recognized in the U.S. Constitution, American cities are the third rung (some might argue, the “third rail”) of federalist governance. Subordinate and dependent upon federal and state decision-making and policy, U.S. cities are also part of the often-incoherent mosaic of other local governmental and non-governmental entities and agencies competing for scarce resources and seeking to meet their expanding needs. Today, issues of education, land use, infrastructure and economic growth are more acute, while conflicts and decisions relating to race and ethnicity persist.

We will examine governance and power in American cities – its historical roots and contemporary forms. As we discuss urban issues of the day – education, finance, economic development and planning – we will analyze the (i) distribution of urban political power (formal and informal), (ii) leadership, (iii) political economy and (iv) national urban policy. Our study will also include comparative considerations with non-U.S. cities.

Required Texts

Peterson, Paul E., City Limits, Univ. of Chicago Press, 1981 (“Peterson”).

Selected Readings listed on Appendix I attached hereto will be available at http://blackboard.case.edu. Selected Readings are a requirement of this course.

Also, consider visits to governing.com – good source for current urban political and policy issues.
Student Performance and Evaluation

Undergraduate student performance in this course will be based on the following:

- Class Attendance and Participation (10%) - Attendance is expected and required. Class time will be used for lectures, discussions and engagement with guest speakers. Class time will include introduction and discussion of material beyond the assigned readings. Students are expected to be prepared for each class meeting by having read, in advance, the materials assigned for each class. All students are expected to participate in class discussion. During the class term, each student will be required to participate in a small group that leads class discussion; there will be advance sign-up for this course requirement.

- Two Short Papers (20% each) - There will be two short research papers on topics to be assigned in Week 4 (Urban Economic Development: Politics of Urban Public Investment) and Week 9 (Race, Poverty and Politics of the New Segregation). Details will be provided in handouts. Short papers should be 3-5 pages, double-spaced with 11 or 12 pt. font and one-inch margins and are due two weeks from date of assignment.

- Film Analysis (10%) - There will be a screening in Week 8 (City Planning: A Political Analysis) of the film, Cleveland: Confronting Decline in an American City (Northern Lights Productions, Lincoln Institute of Land Policy, 2006). Students will be required to provide an analysis and criticism of the substantive issues addressed in the film. This is not intended to be an exercise in filmmaking criticism, although, if time permits, we may have some class discussion on the filmmaking and references to Hollywood’s depiction of cities, slums, mayors and machines.

  The written analysis should address the following:

  a. Brief overview of the filmmakers’ message and argument;
  b. Analysis of issues raised by the filmmakers, utilizing the (i) paradigms and analytics presented in our readings and (ii) your own refinements or views thereon; and
  c. Alternatives analyses and solutions to the issues raised by the filmmakers.

  The analysis should be 2-3 pages, double-spaced with 11 or 12 pt. font and one-inch margins. The film analysis is due two weeks from assignment (March 16th).

- Take-Home Final Examination (40%) – The final will be an essay examination that will cover the breadth of the topics covered in the course of study. The “take home” format is intended to emphasize analysis and writing, not recitation of data. The 48-hour examination period will occur during the week of May 2nd, with the precise dates to be determined after consultations with the students in the class. Additional details with respect to the items above will be provided in class. Prior to the final examination, an optional review session will be scheduled.
Academic Integrity

Students are required to uphold, and to comply with the Academic Integrity Policy of the University. A copy of the Code may be found online at:

http://www.case.edu/provost/ugstudies/acintegrity.htm

Students who do not understand the Policy after having read it should make an appointment to see me to discuss it; indeed, I welcome this discussion and encourage students to see me in advance of any assignment about which they have doubts or questions. It is a course requirement that students read the Academic Integrity Policy.

Ground Rules for the Classroom

The classroom is to be an environment conducive to active engagement and mutual respect for our time and our points of view. Accordingly, please observe the following:

- Arrive on time and be ready to commence at 4:30 P.M. If circumstances require a late arrival, please provide advance notice, if feasible.
- Please turn off all cell phones and mobile electronic devices.
- Laptop or tablet use is permitted for classroom work only. Multi-tasking is not conducive to fully engaged discussion and learning.
- Students are expected and obliged to conduct themselves in class in a professional manner. Professionalism refers to adherence to standards of behavior and performance expected from political scientists. This includes, but is not limited to, courteous behavior in class; attention to other speakers; and engagement with the work at hand.

Guest Speakers

Several guest speakers have been invited to share their expertise with our class. Our guests are current and former elected officials and policy experts. As the availability of speakers can change, I will keep the class advised of changes in scheduling.
