*With permission of advisor, up to 6 hours may be taken outside the department. Only 3 units are permitted to be from a University Seminar. Students can contact the department for a current list of University Seminars that may be taken for credit towards the Philosophy major.

Departmental Honors: The department offers an honors program for students pursuing a major in philosophy. Students in this program must complete a substantial thesis, pass an oral examination on the thesis, and maintain a B average in philosophy courses. To be eligible for admission, a student should have an overall grade point average of B or better, and a grade of B or better in each philosophy course already taken. A student normally should have taken at least four, and at most seven, philosophy courses at the time of application for admission. An honors student should register for PHIL 399 Directed Study to do honors work. Interested students should apply for admission to the program during the first semester of junior year.

Philosophy Capstone: Students may fulfill their SAGES capstone requirement in philosophy by registering for PHIL 399 Directed Study after devising a suitable project in consultation with the undergraduate advisor and supervising faculty member.
