The Department of Classics and the Art Studio are sponsoring an art contest for students in high school and university in conjunction with Vergil Week. Held in late April, Vergil Week celebrates the poetry, the life, and the world of the ancient Roman poet Publius Vergilius Maro, or Vergil. The art contest encourages students to create new artwork inspired by Vergil's Aeneid, Vergil's Rome, or Greco-Roman mythology. Artists are especially encouraged to represent scenes from the beginning of Vergil's epic and to explore characters and themes in Book One of the Aeneid such as gods and goddesses like Jupiter, Juno, Neptune, and Venus; heroes and heroines like Aeneas, Ascanius, Achates, and Dido, and scenes of shipwreck, hunting, exploration, and festival.
