The Department of Classics and the Art Studio are sponsoring an art contest for students at high schools, art schools, and universities in conjunction with Vergil Week. Held in late April, Vergil Week celebrates the poetry, the life, and the world of the ancient Roman poet Publius Vergilius Maro, or Vergil. The art contest encourages students to create new artwork inspired by Vergil's Aeneid, Vergil's Rome, or Greco-Roman mythology. Artists are especially encouraged to represent characters and scenes from Book Three of Vergil's Aeneid such as gods and goddesses; heroes and heroines; and monsters like the Harpies and the Cyclops.
