The Communication Sciences Program within the Department of Psychological Sciences at Case Western Reserve University is seeking applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor, associate professor, or professor to begin AY 2018-2019. The department has a PhD program in communication sciences and a CAA accredited master’s program in communication sciences. In addition, the department has both an APA accredited Ph.D. program in clinical psychology and a PhD program in Developmental, Cognitive, and Affective Sciences (DCAS). It also offers undergraduate programs in communication sciences and psychology. Requested area of expertise is open. Assistant Professor candidates will be evaluated on their potential to establish a prominent, externally funded research program and to excel in teaching at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. Associate Professors and Professors will be evaluated on their demonstrated abilities in both research and teaching. The required teaching load is two courses each semester.

Case Western Reserve University is a very highly-ranked, Research 1 institution. It is located in University Circle, a world-renowned area for its cultural vibrancy (including Severance Hall, the home of the Cleveland Orchestra, the Cleveland Art Museum, the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, and many more). Case Western Reserve University is located proximally to the Cleveland Clinic, University Hospitals, the Cleveland Hearing and Speech Center, and the Louis Stokes Cleveland VA Medical Center, allowing for very high research productivity and access to diverse patient populations.

A Ph.D. in Communications Sciences and Disorders (with CCC-SLP preferred) or a related field is required by the time of appointment (ABD applicants will be considered, but must have earned their Ph.D. prior to commencement of the job). Qualified candidates must submit a detailed letter of application, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research interests, vita, and contact information for at least three references sent electronically to the attention of Communication Sciences Faculty Search Committee (kellie.shaffer@case.edu). Please provide teaching evaluation data and preprints/reprints, if available. Review of applications begins December 1, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled.
